

Title: Urban Transportation Planning

Urban transportation planning focuses on designing efficient public transport systems in growing cities. Planners analyze traffic flow, population density, and environmental impact to design transportation networks.

The research evaluates the effectiveness of bus rapid transit systems in reducing congestion and improving urban mobility.